№ 8040.62

GIVEN BY

V. H. H. Newman.

The Milk Maid

BALLAD

Sung at

Vauxhall Gardens

BY

Madame Feron

The Symphonies & Accompaniments

BY

W. TAYLOR.

NEW YORK Published by DUBOIS & STODART No. 167 Broadway.

known to fail, With my bright and rattling pail, Come then pretty maids be_low p
Quickly come for I must go, Quick_ly come for I must go, "Milk be_low"
Ad Lib:
Ad Lib:
"Milk below."

2

Should you on a sunday meet,
Little Fanny in the street,
Drest in silks and ribbons gay,
Not a word of Milk I pray,
For my sweetheart does not know
That I call out "Milk below."

3

He's a smart and clever lad,
As pretty maiden ever had,
But so proud that I'm afraid
He would scorn his poor milk maid,
If at present he should know,
That I call out "Milk below."

4

Yes, he's richer far than I,
He's in station much more high,
For a Shoemaker is he,
And of London city free;
Oh! I fear his love would go,
If at present he should know,
That I call out "Milk below."

B. P. L. Bindery,
29 1994